INTRODUCTION

The Governor Frank G. Clement Audio Collection consists of 21 audiocassette copies of speeches made by, and one interview of, Frank Clement. Frank G. Clement was Governor of Tennessee from 1953-1959, and again from 1963-1967. The audiotapes in this collection are copies made from various other collections housed in the Tennessee State Library and Archives. This artificial collection was created to facilitate research of speeches made by Governor Clement. The collection concentrates on speeches made during his terms of office. Most of the speeches made were in joint sessions of the Tennessee House of Representatives and Senate.

The tapes in this collection are stored in a climate-controlled vault. A 24-hour notice is required before listening to these tapes.

For additional information on Governor Frank G. Clement, see the following collections: Governor Frank G. Clement Papers, G. 47, G. 49, and G. 50. Also, for additional information concerning the private life of Frank G. Clement, see the Frank G. Clement Papers, accession numbers 94-007 and 98-122.
